ALOK JAIN, J. (Oral)

1. The present petition has been filed under Article 226 of the Constitution of India seeking issuance of a writ, order or direction, particularly in the nature of mandamus, directing respondents No. 2 to 4 not to harass the petitioners at the behest of the private respondents and further directing the official respondents to protect the life and liberty of the petitioners from the alleged threat posed by the private respondents.

2. Learned counsel for the petitioners submits that both the petitioners are major and having a consensual relationship. Since, petitioner, No.2 has not attained the marriageable age, therefore, both eloped together and has been residing together in a live-in relationship, due to which their apprehending threat to their life and liberty at the hands of private respondents.

3. Learned State counsel submits that there is no threat perception as per the pleadings of the party much less apart from bald averments.

4. Considering the nature of the order proposed to be passed, there is no necessity to issue notice to the private respondent(s) or to seek a response from any of the respondents.

5. The present petition does not disclose any material evidence to substantiate the alleged threat perception. Further, it is not forthcoming from the pleadings as to since when the petitioners have been residing together in a live-in relationship.

6. Accordingly, the present petition is dismissed without any expression of opinion on the merits of the case.

7. Needless to say, the State is duty bound to protect its citizens and hence, no other order needs to be passed.
